

SULZER TURNS STATE PAPERS OVER TO GLYNN

Impeached Governor Recognizes Acting Executive for First Time.

LOSES FIRST SKIRMISH

Court Admits as Judges Four Senators Challenged by Attorney for Defense.

Albany, Sept. 19.—Gov. William Sulzer's first line of defense in the impeachment charges against him was utterly splintered today by a unanimous vote of the high court of impeachment to admit as members of the court Senators Wagner, Fawcett, Bannan, and Ramboerger, whom his counsel had challenged. The vote followed a decided opinion from Presiding Judge Cullen that the challenged judges must sit.

The subsequent lines of defense by the Governor are:

First—The contention that the high court is without jurisdiction because the assembly had no right to impeach. The fight on this was begun with a two-hour argument by Louis Marshall for the Governor which will be continued on reconvening at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Second—That the acts of the Governor in the articles do not constitute cause for impeachment. This contention, which will be argued for Sulzer by Austin G. Fox, is based on the assertion that whatever corrupt conduct Sulzer may have been guilty of was committed before he became Governor.

Will Fight to Finish.

Third—That the articles of impeachment are defective in every article which will be attacked separately in the legal skirmish over this allegation.

Fourth—A straight out and out fight on the facts as charged in the indictment, with scores of witnesses and masses of evidence on both sides.

It is certain that the Governor and his lawyers intend now to fight to the end. But their greatest hope is clearly seen on their belief in their ability to raise the technical objections to have the bill of impeachment dismissed and to have the Governor from the humiliation of an actual trial. The fact that on two points Sulzer's lawyers occupied three hours of today's session proves how savagely they propose to fight before they submit their case on the facts.

In view of the plain intention of the defense to make the fight on technicalities, the highest importance is attached to a statement made from the bench by Presiding Judge Cullen, who said that the case has been brought upon the court as the ultimate law. He said:

"Of course, this court is not expected to proceed with the technical attitude which is required in ordinary litigation. While the thundering guns of oratory told every one within a block of the capitol that the battle for the Governor's political life had begun, several other things, with a marked bearing on the situation, were happening.

First, James C. Garrison, arrested early this morning for contempt of the Legislature, was taken from the Tombs and put in solitary confinement in a cell in the Albany penitentiary. This was done at the instance of Assembly leaders, who heard that Garrison was living with his wife in the Tombs.

When Mr. Sulzer heard that Garrison, his staunch supporter, was in the penitentiary, he said: "Too bad. Tell him to come and see me when they let him out."

The second event of moment was a letter to Acting Gov. Glynn from Sulzer's secretary, which recognized Glynn's authority to act as Governor, and submitted extradition matters for the Acting Governor's signature. This is the first time that Sulzer by his recent resignation has indicated lack of belief in his power to act as Governor of the State.

Abandon New Charges.

The plan to amend the articles of impeachment and add three new charges was abandoned by the Assembly leaders tonight after an almost continuous effort of forty-eight hours to get the necessary votes.

Only one vote was lacking, and acquiescence was being shown when a score or more members served notice on Levy that they intended to bring up new charges.

DYNAMITES HIS HOME; TWO KILLED IN CRASH

Indiana Stone Mason, Suddenly Inane, Dies With Daughter in Wreck of Own Making.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 19.—Mack Hurst, fifty years old, a stone mason, today dynamited his home, killing himself and his sixteen-year-old daughter, Maude, and fatally injuring Pannie Hurst, thirteen, and Elizabeth Hurst, six. His wife, who was in the house at the time, escaped injury in some unaccountable manner.

After hiding the whole family to come into one room of the house Hurst said: "We will all die together." Then he touched off a heavy charge of dynamite, and he and his wife went suddenly insane.

GOVERNOR'S AIDS WOULD FREE THAW

Several Members of Executive Council Favor Liberating Prisoner.

INDICTMENT IS REFUSED

Dutchess County Grand Jury Turns Down Application of Anti-Thaw Forces.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 19.—It was learned tonight that several members of the Governor's cabinet, before whom Harry K. Thaw will appear on next Tuesday when Gov. Feltner holds the hearing on the extradition applied for by New York State, are strongly in favor of freeing Thaw. It is also known that the Governor and his council will not take hasty action upon the matter of extradition, but Thaw will be given every opportunity to prove he is sane.

Councilor Noone, of Peterborough, said tonight that he is in favor of setting Thaw free and that he has advised the Governor to investigate all sides of the case before making his decision.

No Hasty Action.

"For my part I do not think this matter will be decided suddenly," said Mr. Noone. "This is a case of one of the oldest in this country has ever seen, and it is probable there never will be another like it. Even admitting that Thaw acts rash at times, there is a small wonder, for to go through what he has in the last five years would make a raving maniac of any man."

Thaw was disappointed today because a storm prevented his taking an automobile drive through the country around Concord. Thaw is enjoying the liberty which is allowed him, and has said that he feels perfectly safe as long as he is in the custody of the Federal officers.

Indictment Is Refused.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The Dutchess County grand jury today refused to return an indictment on the charge of conspiracy against Harry K. Thaw in connection with his escape from the Alcatraz Prison for the Criminal Justice.

A warrant charging conspiracy was sworn out by the district attorney of Dutchess County, and it was upon this that the grand jury today refused to indict Thaw in New Hampshire when the fugitive was deported from Canada.

Deputy Attorney General William Travers Jerome was anxious to have the grand jury indict Thaw for conspiracy in the hope that Gov. Feltner of New Hampshire would then sign the extradition warrant for the return of Thaw to the custody of New York State.

NO WHEELS TURN IN NORTHERN ENGLAND

Important Cities Feel Effects of Strike; No Fuel for Industries.

GOVERNMENT TAKES A HAND

Birmingham, England, Sept. 19.—All the important cities and towns in Northern England today felt the effect of a railroad and transport strike, which spread to England from Ireland. At some points rail and marine traffic is completely suspended.

Great quantities of perishable freight is spoiling in Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, Newcastle, and other places. Thousands of men are being thrown out of work by the closing down of factories which cannot get fuel.

London Traffic Crippled.

London, Sept. 19.—Traffic was seriously crippled today by suspension of the Tillingham Omnibus Company, one of the big companies which operates motor-buses through the streets. Ben Smith, organizer of the Bus and Traction employees, declared that the tie up would be complete within forty-eight hours unless concession is made by the employers.

The government took a hand in the strike situation this afternoon when the Board of Trade offered to arbitrate. Strike leaders promised not to precipitate a general strike tie-up until Monday, pending negotiations.

NEARING THE END

LIFE PRISONER TRIES SUICIDE

Ohio Man, Who Slaughtered Family, Swallows Bile.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 19.—Lorenz Roche, received at the penitentiary last Thursday to serve a life sentence for the murder of his wife, his baby and his mother-in-law, swallowed ten grains of bicarbonate of mercury today with suicidal intent.

He was removed to the penitentiary hospital, where physicians stated he could not recover.

MRS. BELMONT TAKES UP CUDGELS FOR MILITANT

Convert to Pankhurst Methods Declares Immigration Men Should Let English Leader Enter U. S.

New York, Sept. 19.—"If the United States immigration authorities attempt to bar Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst from this country they will be displaying woeful ignorance and narrow-mindedness." This statement was made today by Mrs. J. H. Belmont, at whose home the famous militant suffragist will stay while in New York. Continuing, Mrs. Belmont said:

"Mrs. Pankhurst is the most wonderful woman in the world today. When I was in Paris I saw her daily. She and her daughters show such pluck and courage as I never contemplated before. They have made monkeys out of the strongest and most famous Statesmen in England. They have made the English government and King George the laughing stock of the world."

"Why, the other day Premier Asquith was attacked on the golf links by some militants and it took sixteen detectives to rescue him. What a glorious victory! He was afraid to appear in court against them and wouldn't prefer charges. The clowns in Parliament who are opposing woman suffrage will soon find themselves in a ticklish position before the people as suffrage is bound to come and that quickly."

MICHIGAN VETERAN ELECTED G. A. R. HEAD

Gen. Washington Gardner Wins Despite Opposition of "House of Lords."

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 19.—Over the opposition of the "House of Lords" of the Grand Army of the Republic, Washington Gardner, of Michigan, today was elected commander-in-chief for the ensuing year. Michigan won a double victory, obtaining not only the commander-in-chief but the next encampment also. The delegates voting to meet in 1914 at Detroit. Col. C. E. Adams, of Nebraska, ran second in the race for commander.

Other officers elected were: Senior Vice Commander Thomas M. Seward, Guthrie, Okla.; Junior Vice Commander William L. Ross, Pittsfield, Me.; Surgeon General J. K. Weaver, Morrisville, Pa.; and Chaplain General Horace M. Carr, Parsons, Kans.

Gen. Gardner's first official act was to appoint Oscar A. James, of Detroit, adjutant general and Col. D. R. Stowitt, of Buffalo, N. Y., quartermaster general. The encampment adopted a resolution approving the erection of a peace memorial to the men of both armies to be erected near Chattanooga.

Jailed for Overcoat Theft.

Rotherham, England, Sept. 19.—Laurence Redford Malpas, who described himself as the son of a millionaire, the brother of a duchess, and an officer in the United States Army, who was arrested here several days ago for stealing an overcoat in a local hotel, was sentenced to three months in jail today.

POINDEXTER ASKS HELP FOR HOBOS

Washington Senator Seeks Aid for "Army of the Unemployed."

FREE LABOR EXCHANGES

Government Work to Be Given Men and Regular Scale of Wages to Be Paid.

The "army of the unemployed" of the United States is to receive recognition from Congress if the hopes and desires of J. Edgar Hoover, the so-called "millionaire hobo," be realized. How, who is entitled to write M.D. after his name, and who is devoting his life to the cause of his fellow hobos, has been in Washington recently, interviewing the Secretary of Labor, the members of the Senate and House Committees on Labor, and has succeeded in interesting Senator Miles.

Senator Poinexter already has introduced two bills in the Senate which are intended to benefit the army of the unemployed, and Mr. Hoover is endeavoring to get them to pass a third measure before that body. The first bill introduced by Senator Poinexter provides for the organization of the unemployed into an industrial army of the United States. The second calls upon the Secretary of War to inform the Senate what part of the machinery used in the construction of the Panama Canal will be available on the completion of the canal for use on government works in Alaska and elsewhere. Mr. Poinexter has in mind giving work to the unemployed on these government projects.

Free Labor Exchanges.

The third measure which Mr. Hoover is endeavoring to have introduced into law by Congress provides for the establishment by the Federal government of free labor exchanges, one in each State and in the District of Columbia, to which men and women who are out of jobs may apply for work. These exchanges will see to it that either in their own territory or in that of some other exchange employment is found, and no charge will be made for this good service. The exchanges are to be maintained by the government. Mr. Hoover declared while in Washington, that he believed great good could be accomplished by the establishment of these exchanges, and he vigorously criticized those exchanges operated by private capital at a profit which charge a man or a woman a dollar or more for finding them work.

Senator Poinexter's bill to create an industrial army of the United States is complete in every detail. The Secretary of Labor will be placed in the same relation to the industrial army as is the Secretary of War to the military forces of the land. The President is to be the commander-in-chief of the new army, just as he is of the regular army and of the navy.

The industrial army is to be recruited from the great army of unemployed. Any able-bodied person, without respect to sex, color, or race, is to be allowed to enlist in the army for a term of three months, and as long as he or she obeys the rules and regulations of the army may repeat this enlistment for similar terms. The recruit must subscribe to a oath to support the government of the United States, and also setting forth that he is out of regular employment.

No Uniforms Used.

The industrial "soldier" is not to be called upon to wear a uniform or to engage in any military service. But the government is to use the army in attacking the great governmental projects, such as irrigation plants, the construction of public buildings, the construction of river and harbor improvements, etc. A

Every Man on St. Francis Directorate Arrested on Misdemeanor Indictments; Embezzlement Alleged.

Marion, Ark., Sept. 19.—Every member of the St. Francis levee board was arrested today on indictments charging misdemeanor in office. O. N. Killough, of Wynne, Ark., president of the board, was indicted on a charge of embezzling $2,000 from the board. Eugene Williams, former secretary of the board, was indicted as an embezzler, a shortage of $2,000 being charged against him. All of the twenty-one board members were released on bonds. A mass meeting of citizens has been called for September 30, when all the board members will be given an opportunity to resign.

SCHMIDT TELLS MURDER PLANS

Pseudo Priest Unfolds Plot for Wholesale Killings to Police.

DETECTIVES SCOUT IT

Makes Startling Statement to Newspapers, Reaffirming Confession—Ready to Die, He Says.

New York, Sept. 19.—Hans Schmidt, most picturesque and versatile criminal who has fallen into the hands of the police in years, astonished Inspector Faurot's detectives tonight by unfolding a plan he had conceived for wholesale murders in New York City.

With no variation from his customary ecclesiastical manner, the self-confessed murderer of Anna Aumuller calmly informed the detectives that he had intended to execute old people, cripples, persons suffering from incurable ailments, and "all who found this world a hardship."

He proposed to execute the intended victims either by shooting, poisoning, or dissection, which he declared to be the easiest forms of death. Boasting that he had faced death and had no fear of it, Schmidt said he wanted to "accuse" his victims to die, but lacked the courage to kill themselves.

Faurot Not Impressed.

Inspector Faurot was not greatly impressed by the statements. He was inclined to believe that it was merely an afterthought, designed to give the impression of insanity, although it was made when Schmidt was confronted with the book of blank death certificates which had been found among his effects in St. Joseph's rectory. Schmidt said he had stolen the certificates for the purpose of disposing of the body of Anna Aumuller in a regular way.

Inspector Faurot held that this admission proves that the murder was premeditated, and that the man was absolutely sane when he planned it. In a remarkable statement given to the newspapers this afternoon Schmidt reaffirmed his confession of the murder of Anna Aumuller, and declared his willingness to go to the electric chair for his crime, denied that he had committed any other murders, and absolved his alleged accomplice, "Muret" from connection with any of his wrongdoings.

Dennis Kellner Murder.

Schmidt also declared that if he could convince the Louisville authorities that he was guilty of the murder of little Alma Kellner, who met her death while he was connected with St. John's Church in that city, he would again confess that he and the late John Wondring, the former school janitor, who is now serving a life term at Frankfurt for the murder.

They can send me up to the electric chair once, said Schmidt, "no matter how many times I am hanged."

They can send me up to the electric chair once, said Schmidt, "no matter how many times I am hanged."

"I want to go to the electric chair," said Schmidt, "no matter how many times I am hanged."

"I am sorry for any man who thinks this life is worth living. Many a time I have faced death. I face it now without even the quiver of a muscle. I am ready to die at any time."

For the last time and finally I say that I know nothing about anybody else. I alone am responsible. I do not think it right to drag other people into this. I made them suspects for some part of that suspicion is bound to stick to them the rest of their lives.

"Death is only a step to another life and I am through with this life. I am not afraid of what is beyond, because I did what was my duty."

"As for Dr. Muret, he is not guilty of any crime. I have known him only ten months, and if the police have any writing dated 1911, indicating that I knew him longer than that, it is a mistake. Dr. Muret and I quarreled in August. I told him I had St. Elizabeth's in mind and was acting under his instructions in seeking to make counterfeit money to give to the poor."

Schmidt betrayed no emotion when told that his aged mother in Germany is gripped with the disease he has brought upon the family name.

"I'm sorry for her," he observed coldly. "Wouldn't it be better if she died? I frankly admitted having been in a sanitarium in Germany."

"That was some years ago," he said, "after they had accused me of forging documents to get my papers admitting me to the priesthood. After I had been charged with forgery and thrown out of the priesthood because I was insane, but because I needed rest."

The dismembered fragments of the body of Anna Aumuller were brought over from New Jersey to the Bellevue morgue tonight. The inquest will be held early next week. Coroner Feinberg said today it would not be necessary to make any further identification. Schmidt will not be asked to view the mutilated remains of his victim, although he has expressed willingness to do so.

DIAS SUMMONS FAILS TO PLEASE STATE OFFICIALS

Nephew of Former President Regarded as Objectionable Candidate.

FAIR ELECTION TEST

Administration Will Not Submit to "Count in" of Huerta Candidate.

The announcement that Gen. Felix Diaz has been summoned back to Mexico by President Huerta was regarded by official Washington yesterday as one of the most interesting developments in the Mexican situation in some time. It is now taken for granted that Huerta will endeavor to hold the elections next month, for which Diaz is the only announced candidate up to this time.

While there is as yet no definite knowledge in Washington as to what Huerta's intentions are, his summons to Diaz is interpreted as an indication that he personally will not be a candidate for the Presidency at the forthcoming elections. The lack of information in Washington, however, which makes this more than a probability, and it is admitted that Huerta has not yet done or said anything which absolutely binds him to keep out of the race.

Financial End Important.

Much significance is attached to the fact that since his last leave Europe Felix Diaz has had frequent consultations with his uncle, Don Porfirio Diaz, the former President, now living in France. The elder Diaz is known to have at his disposal a large part of the great fortune he amassed while in power in Mexico, and it is believed that the securing of his strong financial backing was one of the objects of the visits of Felix Diaz. It is present conditions in Mexico the power of money as a factor in the political situation is greater than ever.

The possibility of future complications for the United States in case Diaz is elected President of Mexico was clearly indicated here yesterday in statements issued by the constitutionalist press. It was pointed out that the leaders of that party regard Felix Diaz just as objectionable to them in the Presidency as Gen. Huerta, and that, should he be elected, the revolution in the north will be directed against the will of the Diaz declares that Diaz is just as much a Huerta in connection with the taking of the life of Madero, to whose cause the revolutionists declare they are loyal.

It is known, too, that administration officials share the view of the constitutionalists that Diaz was with Huerta equally responsible for the overthrow of Madero, as it was the pact between them which brought about the elimination of the former President. Yet, through John H. Lusk, the President's special agent before the Mexican government, President Wilson stands pledged to recognize the government chosen to move on a fair and free election, in accordance with the constitutional provisions of Diaz will be regarded as quite as reprehensible as recognition of Huerta. It will be a practical necessity if the judges made the decision.

Rejection of Methods.

It is suggested that the United States may escape the apparent necessity of recognizing Diaz, in case of his election, by rejecting the methods which probably will be used in the forthcoming election. President Wilson already has said that he intends to postpone the election, and those most familiar with Mexico declare that no election which may be held in the near future will have very close scrutiny. Absolute domination of the election by Huerta is predicted by those who have experienced in Mexican affairs.

Secretary Bryan yesterday received a telegram from the party of refugees seeking the United States, calling on the State Department, declaring that many of their number felt that they had come out of Mexico under a misapprehension, and asking the State Department to furnish them with transportation back to Mexico. These refugees are now at San Diego, Cal., where they were landed early this week. Secretary Bryan replied that the department was not in a position to take them back to Mexico for any Americans.

These Americans have expressed considerable indignation at the President's order to Americans to get out of Mexico. They declared that when a special messenger appeared in the Quinn Valley district, with a copy of the President's message, and added his own suggestion that the order be followed at once, they felt that it was a disgrace to obey. They now regret, they say, that they did so, and that they have abandoned hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of personal property.

The State Department pointed Representative Murray of Massachusetts yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Taylor, of New Bedford, Mass., are safe in Mexico. Mrs. Taylor's relatives received word that the couple were ambushed near Ciudad, but the investigation of the State Department reveals that they have reached their camp in safety.

HUERTA AND MEXICAN CONGRESS IN QUARREL

Mexico City, Sept. 19.—A serious quarrel, fostered by the dictatorial methods of President Huerta, has broken out between the national executive and Congress. After long and heated debate the Chamber of Deputies refused to confirm the appointment of Eduardo Tamarit, a member of the Catholic party, as minister of public instruction. Approval of cabinet appointments by Congress is necessary under the constitution. Hereafter there has been no such dissonance, and the present situation establishes a precedent.

The vote against confirmation of Tamarit was 108 to 92. The Catholic party probably will control the next national election, despite the efforts of Huerta to meet the election machinery under his own domination. The Catholic party will meet Sunday, when it probably will designate Foreign Minister Gamboa as its choice for President.
